A charge of five cents will be made for each copy to take care of the cost of the materials. The paper is under the direction of Miss Malow, journalism teacher.

Summer Class Offered In Tailoring

Are you interested in tailoring? If so, here is a chance for you to learn. Mrs. Marshall has announced that she will hold a class in tailoring for all those interested. The class will start after school is dismissed, she stated, about June 1.

All those who wish to enroll, please notify Mrs. Marshall at an early date.

SPORTS VIEWS Season's Record

With the ending of the 1949-50 school term, one of the best sports years that this high school has seen in many years will be concluded.

The various teams have won many honors this year. The Indians' basketball team ended the season with a fine 23-2 slate, one of the best in the state. The squad took honors in the Greene county league, the Greene county tournament, and was runners-up in the district class B meet. Several members of the team were given individual honors as picked members of the all-district five, and our center, Paul Vest, was placed on the all-state team.

In baseball, which has been Cedarville's big sport for many years, the Indians once more did not disappoint their fans. The Cedar nine lost out in the fall league play-off, to take second place, but came back to take the championship in the spring tournament, finally losing out to Eaton, this time in the semi-final.

College Alumni Banquet to Be Held on May 27

The Cedarville college alumni will be held in the college gymnasium Saturday, May 27 at 6:30 p. m. Those taking part in the program of the evening include:

The only "low" in the Indians' athletic record was made in track. The best the cinder crew could do was fourth place in the field of eight, in the county meet.

All in all, the 1949-50 record of Cedarville's teams proved a very good one. Capturing three of the four championships in the county, besides district honors, the Indians lost only six contests throughout the entire year while winning more than thirty.

To the coach, to the members of the teams, and to all who participated, congratulations on a fine year!

Seniors Make Plans For the Future

Soon the long road will be ending and members of the senior class will start a new phase of their lives. Most of them have already made tentative plans for the future.

Don Chesnut is planning to attend Duke University. Durham, N. C. where he will study science. Don Turner will enter the University of Arizona to study zoology.

Richard Strickland wants to study engineering at Olivet College, Kankakee, Ill. Roger Collins plans to attend Ohio State university.

Patty Koppe, Janet Hull, and Mary Ann Walker are interested in the nursing profession.

Roger Hornby, Dick Williamson, and Sam Butts plan to become future farmers of America.

Margaret Swaney and Deloris Littler plan to take a beautiful course. Ann Duvall has enrolled at Miami Jacobs Business college at Dayton. Patty Gillough will take up the role of housewife.

Paul Vest, Paul Harding, Wanda Willis, Cletus Frederick, Viola Ferguson, Melvin Tackett, Jim Luttrell, and Jeanne Huston will be seeking immediate employment of some kind.

Sam Heathcock has accepted work with the Cedarville Lumber company.

Rebecca Creswell, Rosie Miller, Jack Irvine, Christine Stegall, and Ann Huffman will be taking their advanced education just across the street at Cedarville college.

Recollections!

Many bits of philosophy given us early in life, are remembered for a long time afterward.

The writer recalls one such incident related to our class by Rev. Jamieson, when we were in the sixth grade. He told us about a little girl and boy who were playing in the yard one day; presently the little boy came running into the house and cried, "Mother, that pretty rebus has awful thorns on it!"

And later on the little girl came in and said, "Mother, remember that thorn bush that stood in the yard all winter? Now it has beautiful flowers on it."

Now as we are about to be graduated from high school, the philosophy of the above can have real meaning for us as we attempt to adjust ourselves to a new phase of life.

Two Holstein Herds Tie for Top Honors

Two Holstein herds belonging to John D. Stover, Cedarville, R. 1, and Weldon Worth and James Pendleton, Xenia, R. 4, tied in average butterfat production among herds in the Greene county testing programs last month.

They average 42.3 pounds butterfat. The 12-cow Stover herd averaged 1,136 pounds milk and the 21-cow Worth-Pendleton herd averaged 1,101 pounds.

The 9-cow herd of Ed Cummings, Xenia, R. 4, was second with all cows in milk, averaging 40.0 pounds butterfat and 838 pounds milk.

With 3 cows dry and averaging 36.9 pounds butterfat and 975 pounds milk, the 26 cow Holstein herd of Paul Dawson and William I. Stover was third.

The top milk producer was a Holstein from the Worth-Pendleton herd, giving 2,004 pounds. Ranking second in milk production was a Holstein belonging to John Stover and giving 1,974 pounds. Two Holsteins giving 935 pounds milk belong to Worth-Pendleton. Paul and John Dawson-Stover herd, tied for 3rd.

A Holstein from the Dawson-Stover herd, ranked 4th as a high butterfat producer. She gave 74.8 pounds butterfat. Second was a Holstein from the Worth-Pendleton herd, giving 72.1 pounds and third was a Holstein from the John Stover herd, giving 67 lbs.

The 22 herds testing under DHI-IA had 350 cows that averaged 29.1 pounds butterfat and 724 pounds milk. Sixteen cows completed lactation of 305 days or less.

Two cows owned by Joseph L. Smith and Fred and Ginn McColl produced more than 400 pounds butterfat. Producing the most was a Holstein belonging to the Smith herd. The 9-year-old gave 407.8 pounds fat and 13,162 lbs. milk. The other animal, a 9-year-old Guernsey, produced 401.6 fat and 9,481 pounds of milk.

Other herds producing more than 25 pounds butterfat were as follows: Jones and Wolf, 36.2 pounds butterfat and 813 pounds milk; Fred and Ginn McColl, 35.7 and 961; Paul Townsley, 34.9 and 728; E. K. Snook and Sons, 33.8 and 626; C. E. Meredith, 32.5 and 769; Eichman and Adams, 31.8 and 912; W. N. Ankeney and Son, 30 and 763; Paul W. Schaefer, 29.4 and 808; L. A. Devoe and Son, 27.9 and 753; S. H. Shawhan and Son, 27.4 and 523; Joseph L. Smith, 26.8 and 744, and Nelson R. Moore, 25 and 562.

Twenty herds were on the owner sampler testing plan with 211 cows. Otto E. Colvin, Waynesville, R. 2, had the top producing herd. Seventeen herds produced more than 25 pounds butterfat.

One new herd was added during the month, that of Paul Rife and Maynard L. Neff, Cedarville, R. 1, according to Glenn Charles, county tester.

Arthur Evans to Head Legion Post

Legion officers for the next year were elected at the last meeting and will be installed in June.

Arthur Evans, Commander; Harold Strobridge 1st vice commander; Earl Chaplin, 2nd vice commander; Paul Dobbins, Adjutant; H. K. Stormont, Finance Officer; Richard Wright, Sgt.-at-Arms; Nathan Elder, Chaplain; P. J. McCorkell, Service Officer.

Mr. Virgil Sticka and Paul Dobbins were elected to the Park Board, Mr. Dobbins, succeeding Mr. Arthur Judy, Sr. who resigned this post.

Fred Keller, Jr., of Washington D. C., has sued Cecil Bradshaw for $28,000, as a result of an accident in which Keller was a passenger in Bradshaw's car last October.

Bible Class to Raise Corn

Homemakers class of the Clifton United Presbyterian church, taught by Dr. John W. Bickett is planning a worth while project. Arrangements are being made to plant 35 acres and plant it in corn. Members of the class and congregation are being asked to bring tractors, discs and other machinery, fertilizer, corn and etc. to the field on the morning of May 23 preparatory to plowing and planting that day. Prof. Elwood Shaw is president of the class.

Sub-Chairmen Named for Scout Drive

Sub-chairmen in the annual fund-raising campaign of Simon Kenton district, Boy Scouts of America, were named Tuesday by county Engineer Fred R. Lemcke, who is directing the drive in the area outside of Xenia city.

The campaign, for which Ray A. Kline manager of the J. C. Penney company, Xenia, is general chairman, opened Monday when volunteers began the task of obtaining $5,350 to carry on the Scout program in Xenia and Greene county the coming year.

Canvassing the county include E. G. Shaw and G. D. Hare for the Knollwood, Alpha, Zimmermann area; W. R. Ewing, Jamestown; Robert Marshall, Cedarville; Paul Englehard, Bellbrook; James R. Anderson, Wilberforce; T. E. Williams, Spring Valley. Sub-chairmen were not named in Yellow Springs or Fairborn as the Scout program benefits from community chest drives conducted in those areas.

Members of Scouts residing in rural areas outside of towns in the county will be asked to assist in solicitation in their respective communities.

Tom Adair of the Adair furniture store is directing the campaign in Xenia.

To Name Hospital Superintendent in Near Future

Appointment of a superintendent for the new Greene County Memorial hospital, now under construction in the north end, of Xenia may be made soon. It was indicated by the hospital's governing board of trustees at a meeting of the Greene county health and welfare council in the basement of the new Xenia township school, Monday night.

Trustees participating in a panel discussion when plans for the new hospital were explained to the council included Frederick E. Anderson, chairman; C. D. Baynard, Caesar Creek township, secretary; and Rodney G. Kauffman, Fairborn. The fourth trustee, Earl L. Ritenour, Ross township was not present.

Dr. S. C. Ellis, Xenia, secretary of the hospital's building commission, served as moderator for the discussion.

Mr. Anderson, speaking for the governing trustees, explained that group agreed to serve only on condition there be no political pressure, it be given "absolute authority" and that its policy would be to make the hospital as "nearly self-supporting as possible." He also pointed out the four-member board will be in complete agreement before passing on any decisions coming before it.

Eighty-eight applications for the position of superintendent have been received, according to Mr. Kauffman, who said the field had been narrowed to seven. He said the appointee will not be a "medical man" but a business administrator.

Trustees said there will be no solicitation for funds for equipping the hospital. Individuals and organizations who have expressed a wish to donate equipment for the hospital will be given this opportunity after it has been determined what equipment will be purchased from available funds and what will be needed which groups can donate.

Dr. Paul D. Espey, Xenia, participated in the discussion, speaking for the key committee of the Greene County Medical society. Other committees to be named by the medical group will include a records committee, whose duty will be to see that records are maintained properly at the hospital, and a credentials committee.

Roy Dudley, president of the health and welfare council, presided and a motion picture, "You're the Doctor," was shown at the meeting which was one of four planned for the council's membership this year. Following the discussion, visitors were taken on a tour of the new school by Clarence Barker, supervising principal.

Greene county's memorial hospital is rapidly assuming its final form.

Jackets Down Quakers, Bluffton In Weeks Play

The Yellow Jackets jumped to an early six run lead over Wilmington College and coasted to a 9 to 3 victory here last Thursday afternoon.

The Jackets tallied six runs in the first inning as Dunlap, Nock, and Justus pounded out three straight singles, then after McNulty popped out, Roger Ush unloaded is second home run of the year. Shumate walked and after Huffman popped out, Hildreth, Weimer and Dunlap singled in succession bringing in two more runs before Nock grounded out to end the inning. The Jackets added two more runs in the third and wound up their scoring by pushing across a single tally in the eighth inning.

The Quakers scored once in the seventh inning and twice in the eighth inning when Bill Hoffeld homered with a man on base.

Marty Weimer went the route for the Jackets and pitched good ball, as he scattered 10 hits, walked two, and struck out four. Bill Dunlap and Archie Justus led the Jackets at the plate with three hits apiece. The Box Score:

The Jacket nine did their part in making Cedar day a success by downing the Bluffton Beavers by a score of 14 to 4.

The Beavers scored first when they pushed across a run in their half of the first inning, but the Jackets took matters in their own hands by scoring twice in the second inning on Ken Huffman's single with the bases loaded which was the big blow of the inning. They pushed across two more runs in the third inning, and three more in each, the fourth and fifth innings before ending their day's scoring with four runs in the seventh inning.

Marcus Townsley pitched fine ball for the Jackets as he allowed but eight hits, walked four and struck out thirteen. Roger Ush and Ken Huffman banged out three hits apiece in leading the Jackets to victory. The Box score:

CLARENCE J. BROWN Writes With a Buckeye In Congress

At long last, after having the $29 billion "one-package" appropriation bill before it since late March, the house approved the amended measure on last Wednesday. Before passing the bill, the house voted down practically every amendment increasing appropriations, except those requested by national defense authorities, and, on roll call votes, accepted all amendments making cuts in appropriations. At the last minute two Republican-sponsored amendments, reducing the over-all appropriation by approximately $1 billion, were adopted, thanks to the solid support of the economy bloc. Under the first amendment most of the Federal agencies will be compelled to get along 10% less funds than requested in the president's budget, with the military establishment, veterans hospitals, FBI, judiciary, and other necessary agencies excluded. Under the second amendment approximately $200,000 federal jobs would be abolished by filling only 10 percent of the vacancies occurring during the coming year through retirement, death, or resignation, with special provision for filling essential technical positions, such as medical staffs, etc. The omnibus appropriation bill did not contain funds for foreign aid or interest charges on the national debt, which must be appropriated later. By a tie vote of 40 to 40 (it takes a majority to adopt an amendment) the senate turned down an amendment offered by Senator Taft to reduce the authorization for the $3.2 billion foreign economic aid bill of $500 million. By an overwhelming majority the senate then proceeded to cut the measure to $250 million. The house had previously made the same $250 million reduction in the authorization. So, the total approved for foreign economic aid during the coming fiscal year will be about 8 percent less than requested by the president.

Congressional mail protesting the rail strike and asking action to bring it to an end was heavy last week. But, there is little congress can do. Over a third of a century ago congress passed the railway labor act, providing means and methods, and a mediation board, for the settlement of employment disputes in the railroad industry. The law worked perfectly for nearly a quarter of a century, until President Roosevelt decided the mediation board's decision did not give workers as high a wage increase as he desired. Whereupon the mediation board's decision was ignored, and the president helped direct a higher wage settlement. Since then, each time a dispute has arisen, railroad workers have ignored the railway labor act and the decisions of its mediation board and have looked to the White House for action and aid. There was a heavy demand last week that the president give up his "non-political" campaign tour to the northwest and return to Washington and attempt to settle the strike.

While on his campaign tour last week, President Truman signed into law the national science foundation bill, recently passed by congress. Under this legislation a 24-member board of scientists would supervise scientific research and the awarding of fellowships and scholarships. Under the new law $15 million a year would be spent to develop and encourage basic research and education in the sciences.

The house is expected to have before it this week or next three bills from the armed services committee. The first, designated as an extension of the selective service act, actually provides only for registration and classification of young men reaching 18 for possible future service. However, none could be inducted into military service until and unless congress enacts future legislation therefor. The president or the military authorities would no longer have any power to conscript men for military service, or to order the national guard or reserve components to active duty, unless congress first approved. The second bill would authorize the expenditure of $502 million for construction of military and naval air bases where needed and military housing over seas. The third measure would authorize starting a modernization program for the U. S. navy, including the building of atomic-powered and other new types of submarines, and for converting certain naval ships to guided missile use.

Vice President Barkley late last week named the special senate committee to investigate the crisis in Tennessee. This special committee, headed by Senator J. V. Rife of Tennessee, will conduct the investigation originally planned by a hard-boiled subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee. Many Washington cynics do not expect the committee to find much wrong in the big cities of America—which are practically all controlled by democratic political machines—at least between now and election.

By a vote of 53 to 30 the senate late last Thursday rejected the president's reorganization plan No. 12, submitted under the reorganization act, which would have destroyed the present power and authority of General Counsel Denham of the national labor relations board under the Taft-Hartley act. If the senate had not adopted the resolution rejecting plan 12, it would have become effective automatically on May 24. The Hoover commission had not recommended plan 12. The senate also rejected a reorganization plan to make the comptroller of currency subordinate to the secretary of the treasury as not being in keeping with the Hoover commission recommendations.

Experts of the department of agriculture report this year's winter wheat crop will be the lowest in the last seven years. The western wheat belt has been hard hit, and wheat prices are expected to remain at a high level through 1950.

In contacting our office or other government departments, please remember Washington is now on daylight savings time—or one one hour faster time than Ohio.

Open Drive for $133,000 in Savings Bonds

Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Johnson expressed confidence in Greene county's patriotism which can be expressed in the purchase of federal savings bonds as the independence savings bond drive got started Monday. It will extend through the Fourth of July.

Johnson said, "Now we've got a chance to show them what we can do in peacetime."

A goal of $133,000 confronts this county in the drive which will be highlighted on Saturday, June 17, by a visit of the Liberty Bell replica given the state of Ohio.

Judge Johnson said no solicitors will work in the campaign. Bonds may be purchased at banks throughout the county.

It's an all-out drive by Uncle Sam with his annual drive to loose dollars out of the mattress—this 1950 campaign.

Slogan of this year's effort is "save" for Your Independence: Buy U. S. Savings Bonds." The quota is the sale of $650,000,000 in series E Bonds.

Newest aspect of this drive is the frank admission by treasury officials that the annual government bond sales campaign is probably a permanent fixture. And from now on, the basic sales appeal will stress bonds as personal savings. The purely patriotic appeal, which featured the great war bond drives and, to a lesser extent, the postwar bond drives, will be largely missing from this and future drives.

Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, in announcing the details of the '50 drive, reveals that U. S. citizens now hold $34,200,000,000 worth of outstanding series E bonds. Monthly redemptions are running only 5 per cent of this total. Total $454,000,000 or just $16,000,000 less than the top postwar year of 1948.

Plan Revival in Washington C. H.

A two-weeks' revival, announced as "an old-time grass-roots type of evangelistic campaign," with a tent and a sawdust trail, is scheduled to open in Washington C. H. June 11.

The triangle at the intersections of the 3-C highway and US-62, opposite the Brandenburg motor plant, will be the scene of the meetings.

Rev. H. Max Good, celebrated Columbus revivalist, is to be the evangelist. Recently Rev. Mr. Good held a series of meetings in Cedarville, where he drew immense crowds nightly.

GUESTS HERE SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Conner and family had as guests Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Williamson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McClure and son, Mrs. Flora Deck, Douglas Williamson, Miss Vivian Ramsey, Mr. and Mrs. George Deck and daughter and Charles Deck and of Springfield and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ignich and sons of Mechanicsburg.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS

Misses Marcia and Mary Jane Williamson and Gerrylou Deck of Springfield were guests of Miss Miss Naomi Conner last weekend and attended Cedar day exercises, on Saturday.

Greene County Dairymen Honored

Four Greene county dairymen have been honored by the Purebred Dairy Cattle association for their achievement in developing their herd of dairy herd to a yearly production average of more than 350 pounds of butterfat for the year 1949.

Heading the list was John D. Stover's herd of 11 cows with a yearly average production of 424 pounds of butterfat. Next was the 25 herd of William I. Stover and Paul Dawson with an average of 418 pounds. J. L. Beatty's herd of 9 cows had an average of 391 pounds and the Fred and Ginn McClain herd of 16 cows averaged 352 pounds.

These four herds were added to the national honor roll and awarded a diploma by the Purebred Dairy Cattle association. All were members of the Greene county dairy service unit and the herd records were made under their herd improvement rules under the supervision of Glenn Charles, county tester.

Plans for Greene county's farm men's camp, which will be held at Camp Clifton Aug. 19-20, got under way last Wednesday evening when the camp committee met at the New Jasper township house.

This is the 4th consecutive year that the Farm Forum has sponsored the camp; and this year New Jasper township will be in charge.

Russell Fudge and Leroy Hollingsworth are co-chairmen of the committee. Mr. Fudge has been named program director and Mr. Hollingsworth will have charge of trapshooting.

Other committee chairman named at the first planning meeting were: Arthur Bahns and Roscoe Turner were selected business managers; and Walter Nash and Nelson Moore will be in charge of registration. The horse shoe contests will be directed by Forest Strong, Franklin Boots will arrange the rifle and pistol matches, and Harry Spriggs was asked to round up a quartet.

Dairy Unit Recommends Promotion Campaign

Directors of the Greene county dairy service unit at their regular monthly meeting last week recommended that deductions of 1 cent per 100 pounds of milk be made during the month of June to push the sales and consumption of dairy products. The funds will be used by state and national dairy organizations in advertising and promotion work.

Milo Cooper, county inspector reported that 435 herds in the county have signed up for artificial breeding service and that 244 cattle were bred during the month of April. Six herds signed up for this service last month.

Glenn Charles in charge of the central testing laboratory in Xenia reported 22 herds on dairy herd improvement test and 20 on owner-sampler. One new herd was added to the testing program last month.

No Poultry Price Supports

There will be no price support this year on chickens and turkeys. Price supports have been in effect since 1942; however it has been necessary to carry out purchase programs on poultry on only few occasions.

Department of agriculture officials point out that it is still early enough in the season for producers to make adjustments in their individual production that may be warranted by the withdrawal of price supports.

Itchy Pigs Rub Off Profits

Itchy pigs rub off the profits, says H. M. Barnes, extension swine specialist at Ohio State university. He suggests that hog producers spray or brush hogs with benzene hexachloride or chlor-dane if mange is present.

Because adult hogs can transmit mange to the spring pig crop, early treatment of the breeding stock is advised. Complete control of lice and mange is dependent, however, upon good sanitation around the hog house and lots, as well as by careful spraying.

More Cattle On Feed

Ohio has around 5 percent more cattle on feed than last year according to the co-operative crop reporting service. For the 11 corn belt states there is an 8 percent increase over last year.

Farmers report that they will market more of them after July 1 this year than during previous years. The reason is that there are more calves now on feed in proportion to steers and heifers, compared to former years.

NEWS WOMEN MEET

Officers and members of the Ohio Newspaper Women's association met over the weekend in Xenia. Miss Mildred Mason of the Gazette is the organization's president. Representatives from all the leading papers in Ohio were present.

FORM JUVENILE GRANGE

A juvenile grange has been organized at Jeffersonville. A rural life meeting is to be held May 21. A literary program, sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Max Morrow, featured the program of the initial meeting.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS

The garden clubs of Greene county met in Xenia Thursday to attend a flower school, and to listen to a talk by Mrs. Clyde Noe of Dayton. About 150 women were present.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

They knew it was her birthday, so they baked a cake! And the party for Mrs. Wilber Woods of Paintersville was attended by 10 members of the T.T. club.

FAST WORK!

The Record-Herald, WCH news paper, stated that returns were turned in from one of the city's election precincts at 6:15 p. m. The polls didn't close until 6:30. Fifteen minutes later the returns were posted—but only 30 minutes later than the newspaper's report.

Captures Strange Bird Near Pool

A Fayette county lad, Jimmy Estle, captured a bird at Anglers pool, near Washington C. H. Irvin Patrick, game protector, identified the bird as a purple gallinule, whose habitat is Florida.

Columbus bird folk studied it and authorities have agreed that its identification is correct. Some say the bird frequented the pool last year. It is believed its mate may be around the area some-where.

Foreign Students Explore Farms

Two foreign students enrolled in the department of agriculture, Ohio State university recently went on a tour of Fayette county farms. The students—G. M. Mian of Pakistan and Mohamed El-Azzazi of Egypt—were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murdock, 1305 Lindbergh. Among the farms which the agriculture students toured was the O. W. (Doc) House farm on the Circleville road.

National Water Systems Month

With an Electric Water System

THE WATER DOES THE RUNNING

—Pumps and pipes the lifting and toting

Running water saves miles of steps, hours of tiresome pumping and carrying by hand—and does it for pennies! For one cent an electric water system pumps more water than a man would pump in a whole day. Running water offers valuable protection against fires—and is a big help in profitable farm production.

As every farmer knows, water—and plenty of it—is a necessity in food production. Poultry and livestock, like people, drink more water when it is kept handy, in easy reach. This means more eggs, larger eggs, more milk, quicker fattening and finishing of livestock for marketing.

In the home an abundant supply of clean water pumped and hauled electrically, lightens housework, saves time and energy. The whole family enjoys the comfort and convenience of running water in kitchen, bathroom, laundry or utility room.

Electric pumps can switch on automatically to keep the storage tank filled; the water flows under pressure to the house, the dairy barn, poultry house, the feedlot or the kitchen garden. For advice on sizes and types of electric water systems consult your county agricultural agent, vocational agriculture teacher, or the farm representative of your electric service company.

President Roosevelt's Board said—

President Truman's Board said—

Still the leaders of the Railroad

Firemen's Union say—

"STRIKE!"

This ridiculous strike is an affront to every citizen of the nation. It's not for more money.

It's not because of hours. It's only for soft feather-bedding spots for additional unnecessary firemen to go along in diesel locomotives just for the ride. A leading liberal newspaper calls the demands of the union leaders "horse-feathers"!

The reckless leaders of the firemen's union want to force down the throats of the railroads and the public a ridiculous "make-work" proposal which has been twice ruled out by Presidential Fact Finding Boards duly appointed under the provisions of the Railway Labor Act.

This demand of union leaders for additional and unnecessary firemen to ride in diesel locomotives was rejected after months of hearings—by a Board appointed by President Roosevelt in 1943.

It was again rejected in 1949 by a Board appointed by President Truman. Recent meetings with the National Mediation Board have brought no change in the attitude of the union dictators.

Union Leaders Defy Intent of Law

The union leaders helped write the Railway Labor Act. Yet in an attempt to jam through this scheme of pure "feather-bedding" by leading the members of their union out on strike and threatening paralysis to large areas of the nation, they are defying the spirit and intent of the very law which they helped to create.

This strike is not for higher wages. It is a strike to force the railroads to employ many more thousands of firemen who are not needed! It would be indefensible waste. The railroads have refused to place this additional and unnecessary burden on the public.

But more important than any other consideration, is the action of these few irresponsible union leaders in seeking to force a crippling strike upon the

This strike is one of the silliest strikes in history!

What are these reckless union leaders trying to do? They seek to cause thousands of their members to strike, and throw hundreds of thousands of other employees on and off the railroads out of employment, with loss of pay to them and their families, plus a severe blow to industry and the citizens of the nation.

What's the strike all about? If the union has its way—what happens? The present members of the union won't get one cent more pay. They will merely have been assessed for a costly and indefensible drive in an attempt to provide more dues-paying members for the union by creating "feather-bedding" jobs for additional and unnecessary firemen. This is certainly one of the silliest strikes in history!

nation for their own selfish purposes.

There is no other possible answer to such a demand but "No!"

The railroads in making such a reply believe they have the whole-hearted support of the people in whose interest they are willing to fight this out, despite the loss and inconvenience that all will suffer.

It is time to put an end to such un-American demands.

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

STASSEN SPEAKS

Unless a very prominent person speaks up now and then he ceases to be prominent. We forget folks faster than we get acquainted with them. Take Stassen, for example: A very short time ago he was on every front page, and in most people's conversation. Then there was a convention. Then Stassen took the presidency of a university—a popular practice with name men. The other day he uttered an utterance. He spoke with finality about President Truman. He said Truman is the worst president we ever had, and the best politician. He recited the "school" of politics from which Truman was graduated under Prof. Pendergast. So-o-o. Truman chartered a train and dedicated a dam that had been dedicated already three times, on a non-political tour of the country. There you are; you pay your money and you take your choice—at least you pay your money!

FLYING SAUCERS

Delbert Moore, wash-water empuir at Pikeville, Ky., was innocently working at his trade, when a trio of flying saucers sailed 'way up high over his head. To quote Bro. Moore: "I've seen some beautiful things in my life (Mrs. Moore has lovely wash water) but that was the most beautiful yet." Each of three saucers had a flaming tail about 300 feet long. They made a buzzing, whizzing sound, says he. There are those among Bro. Moore's neighbors who insist his wife is a whizz herself throwing saucers, especially if she has told him three times to empty that water.

A SAFETY ZONE

So long as we can give Oh's and Ah's to stories about Hilt Hinton and Liz Taylor's romantic wedding, little things like the president spending a sizeable chunk of our money dedicating a dam that has been dedicated already three times, we are in the safety zone.

THEY GET AROUND!

You help pay $350,000,000 (the seven ciphers are correct) every year as travel expense for government employees. Some of it is necessary. But a checkup shows that 75 per cent of it is wasteful extravagance. We could say, but we shouldn't, that some of the trips are never made. But we can say, with safety, that much of the money is spent under the guise of government work when actually it is to promote political purposes. The important part is that you help pay it, and that it is a huge sum.

IT HAPPENS OFTEN

The president crossed the continent, at very high expense to you, with the announced purpose of dedicating the Colgate dam. It develops that the dam has been dedicated already three times, and that by no stretch of the imagination is there anything going on at the dam to warrant another dedicatory ceremony. But it is located strategically at the other side of the country, and a non-political trip, at your expense, comes in handy... and how non-political it turned out to be!

A DEER SHOPPER

Two employees of a Youngstown store, working after hours, watched a huge deer make a tour of the store, eyeing merchandise, and inspect the basement. Somebody opened a back door and the deer shopper looped off, leaping a high fence, and disappeared. He made no purchases. He found things too deer, perhaps.

TO THE LAST DROP

Just before his sick calf took its last drop, Farmer Albert Lemmer who lives in Nebraska, dosed it with coffee. It was a cold morning. The calf was about frozen. It drank the coffee eagerly, to the last drop. And lived happily ever afterwards. Good things happen over coffee.

THE LOST LAWS

There is no joy in Bloomville—the laws are lost. Park as you please, plant turnips in the street throw dead cats in your neighbor's yard—the village will pay no mind. The laws got lost. Once upon a time the mayor's office was red up, and worthless papers tossed out—including village ordinances. There is no joy in Bloomville.

PARAGRAPHS

President Truman sent word ahead that he "wanted to shake hands personally" with the little boy who had a desire to meet the

Six Inch Sermon

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Hosea Reveals God's Forgiving Love.

Lesson: Hosea 11: 1-4, 8-11; 14: 4-9.

Memory Selection: Hosea 14: 4.

IN THE CHILDHOOD of the race, God had called the Israelites out of Egypt, and his treatment of them had ever been loving and merciful, even when they went after strange gods.

The heart of God yearned over the sinful people in the time of Hosea when their destruction by the Assyrians was imminent. The wretched people were scattered throughout the provinces of the Assyrian empire and the Ten Tribes of Israel disappeared from history. Some suppose they were swallowed up by other races.

If the Ten Tribes did disappear from history, the words of God through Hosea were not discredited. For the blessings promised to the people in the future were conditional—they were dependent upon the people returning to God. They did not return to him and they did not return to their home land.

Hosea draws a picture of Israel blessed of God in the days of their captivity—the dew upon the earth would refresh the people with good things, and bless them in many ways. And it is interesting to suppose that some families never let the fire of true religion die so that on the day of Pentecost were present Jews of the Dispersion, from different countries of the East.

The lesson teaches God's love toward his people as strongly as does the story of the Prodigal Son. God ever waits to receive the children who return unto him.

president. It's difficult, we'd say, to do it any other way, but this guy Truman has done a lot of difficult things; he might manage shaking hands with somebody without doing it personally.

The tiny town of Bainbridge stages an annual "Blossom Time" festival, modeled after Winchester, Va.'s Apple Blossom festival. This year over 10,000 persons attended the affair at Bainbridge. It takes community spirit and an idea to do such things.

Television carried recently a surgical operation. Watchers got a first-hand lesson in how trained surgeons work, their skill in delicate operations; and at the same time they dismissed a lot of fears they have of an operating room.

A new law in Kentucky hospitalily—being invited to a party and Your Host didn't appear until it was over!

By 1950, they say, women will outnumber men by 700,000 in U.S.A. But even that minority isn't any worse than the average man finds himself in at home with only one woman.

Credit the census bureau with at least one stroke of humor—asking "who is head of this house?"

Arthur Godfrey earn—pardon us—was paid $440,000 last year. Tom Howard also proved that it pays to be ignorant—he paid tax on an income of $218,000. But Tom, at that, can't be ignorant—er—than Godfrey.

The only social we Americans can have looking at a picture of Rita Hayworth with all the "alley cats" is that it beats having the picture taken with Orson Wells, at that!

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

AS A HOPEFUL NOTE for the housekeeper, as well as for industry in general, I want to quote from some information given me recently by James F. Lincoln, president of the Lincoln Electric company, Cleveland, Ohio.

Just to acquaint you with Mr. Lincoln's beliefs, and his success in carrying them out, I'll tell you that around 33 years ago, Mr. Lincoln started the company with a capital of $150; that he worked always for fair pay between him and his employees, with the result that he, along with the other officers of the company, and those employees own the business.

Carnegie

Now to the good news mentioned in paragraph one above. Mr. Lincoln says that American industry has made miraculous progress in reducing the cost of manufacture of its product. The next great step that will be taken in industry is to find methods whereby the cost of distribution can be tremendously increased, and the saving made here will be much greater in extent and in effect than any progress which can now be made in manufacturing.

If the same ingenuity is used in development of distribution, as has been used in manufacturing, the price that the consumer pays for his products will be reduced by more than 40 per cent, which means the standard of living will be greatly increased.

Then he goes on to tell that the Lincoln Electric company is working hard on this problem.

Well, it is great good news when a man of Mr. Lincoln's ability and integrity gets to work on anything. For Mr. Lincoln is a capitalist who works unselfishly, works for the benefit of the man who works with him in any capacity. As I said above, the employees own the company, and that was through Mr. Lincoln's own planning.

COMMON PLEAS COURT

Divorce Actions

Lois McCormick vs. James L. both of Xenia; neglect. The plaintiff asks custody of one child.

Jean Maxwell asks divorce from Kenneth, charging neglect. The plaintiff is a minor. The couple was married in Xenia last July.

The following divorces have been granted: Marcy Neff from Robert C. with custody of six minor children; W. A. Hammond from Lorel R. defendant restored to former name of Rankin; Frances Faulkner from Virgil, neglect. Seeks Damages

Josephine Hall has filed suit vs. Andrew and Martha Stolarz, asking damages of $696.38, allegedly due on merchandise.

Cases Dismissed

For lack of prosecution, the following cases have been dismissed: Rosetta McCormick vs. Luther McCormick; Carolyn Burroughs; Charles Osborne vs. Oscar Hull; Atlas Tool Corp. vs. Royal Electric, Inc.

Inez E. Batdorf vs. Vincent John Kronauge; Charles I. Reaver and other vs. W. P. Finke and others; Cleve Holley vs. Harry Hiles; Elwood S. Guenther vs. Lonnie Cantal; Marie Johnson vs. Harriett Turner and others; Cletie Miller vs. Fred H. Kelley.

Asks Judgments

R. C. Wells, doing business as

R. C. Wells Feed and Supplies, Cedarville, filed two suits for judgments in common pleas court.

Defendants are O. A. Stover, Cedarville, from whom $407.21 is asked, and Eugene Flax, James-town, for $289. The amounts represent money allegedly due on merchandise. Wead and Aultman, Xenia, is the law firm representing Mr. Wells.

Cite Restrictions

R. Paul and Clara O. McElrath of 7401 Harry Truman drive, Dayton (Beavercreek township, seek an injunction against Clyde E. and Miriam V. Fogles and Mary M. Wiseman, all of McElrath pike, Beavercreek township on grounds the defendants are violating plot restrictions.

The petition, filed for the McElraths by Wead and Aultman, Xenia, claims all are residents of Eastern Hills estates and that the Fogles live in a basement residence and the Wiseman woman in a basement and trailer. No efforts are being made to complete their homes, resulting in detriment to the plaintiffs, it is claimed.

Suits Dismissed

Lack of prosecution was the reason for dismissing more suits pending on the court docket: Fred Alexander vs. Anna Alexander; Lawrence Clark against Delmar Matthews, Bertha Ribber vs. Richard Collins, Elsie Mitchell vs. Effie Lane, Cora Lampman vs. Yeg Lampman, Ella Wagner against Joel H. EARLY SPADE WORK

R. C. Wells Feed and Supplies, Cedarville, filed two suits for judgments in common pleas court.

Defendants are O. A. Stover, Cedarville, from whom $407.21 is asked, and Eugene Flax, James-town, for $289. The amounts represent money allegedly due on merchandise. Wead and Aultman, Xenia, is the law firm representing Mr. Wells.

Cite Restrictions
R. Paul and Clara O. McElrath of 7401 Harry Truman drive, Dayton (Beavercreek township, seek an injunction against Clyde E. and Miriam V. Fogles and Mary M. Wiseman, all of McElrath pike, Beavercreek township on grounds the defendants are violating plot restrictions.

The petition, filed for the McElraths by Wead and Aultman, Xenia, claims all are residents of Eastern Hills estates and that the Fogles live in a basement residence and the Wiseman woman in a basement and trailer. No efforts are being made to complete their homes, resulting in detriment to the plaintiffs, it is claimed.

This Week in WASHINGTON

ONLY APPROXIMATELY eight million dollars have been trimmed from the $23-billion omnibus appropriations bill. On top of this, the house appropriations committee has slashed approximately a billion dollars off of excise taxes, has voted to restore 16,000 beds to veterans' hospitals to cost something like $275,000,000, and has voted to up contract authority for the national defense establishment by $500,000,000.

From all this, it would appear that the economy bloc in the congress has lost out and that the politicians are pulling the roost with one eye on votes this fall and the other on the President's veto power. For the President has warned congress that he will not accept any tax reductions or increased expenditures without some kind of a provision to meet the increased deficit which was at the start approximately 5.2 billion for 1951.

The politicians can tell the voters. "We tried to give you these things, but the President vetoed the proposition." The Veterans' administration even testified it did not want or need 16,000 additional beds, but Congressmen John Rankin of Mississippi, author of the bill, and other congressmen wanted the money spent in their respective districts.

Since three distinguished Americans, all former secretaries of state, James Byrnes of South Carolina, Gen. George C. Marshall and Cordell Hull, have testified that Dr. Owen Lattimore was "not the principal architect of our far eastern policy," the congress seems to be that such gossip as has been spread by such Communists or ex-Communists as Bigdens, Browder, Dodd, and others is probably valueless and irrelevant.

The senate finance committee has agreed tentatively to fix the umbrella coverage of old age survivors' insurance at $500,000 instead of the $1,000,000 which the house voted to cover last year.

Meanwhile the senate interstate and foreign commerce committee received conflicting testimony relative to a bill to ban interstate transmission of gambling data. The department of justice gave rather liberal views with reference to the measure, while the federal communications commission urged the bill be made more specific, declaring it would be impossible to police or administer as proposed by the justice department. Likely, a compromise bill, embodying the ideas of both FCC and justice department, will be drafted.

The senate reached the voting stage on the new ECA appropriations, and by a vote of 55 to 44 rejected an amendment offered by Senators Pat McCarran of Nevada and Owen Brewster of Maine, which would have brought Spain into the European recovery program with a $50,000,000 loan.

Several recommendations to slash the $3,272,450,000 authorization anywhere from a half billion to a billion dollars were made. Sen. James P. Kem of Missouri wanted to cut it a billion dollars. Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, proposed a $500,000,000 cut. Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio, said he was sure ECA could be cut, but said the estimated needs were so vague he didn't know whether the cut should be half a billion or a billion and a half dollars.

Senate and house conferees have agreed on the omnibus rivers and harbors and flood control authorization bill carrying a total of $1,483,598,325 for new projects; $200,000,000 for the Missouri river basin reclamation projects and $46,608,000 for "miscellaneous matters, such as surveys of proposed new projects. The bill is merely an authorization measure and carries no appropriations.

President Truman's "non-political" trip through the West and Northwest which wound up with a political meeting in Chicago will give the political writers the first bidding of how the folks at the "white stop" feel about the President and the Fair Deal program since the election in 1948. The Republicans are labelling the trip of the President a political mistake.

Successful Parenthood

BY MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

EAGER TO SET a good example, parents sometimes forget that to a three, six or nine-year-old, Mother and Daddy may seem overwhelmingly powerful; just because they are grown up.

If father and his friends turned the street signs the wrong way in their early days, it will not necessarily be giving Sonny undesirable notions if such a tale slips into a dinner table conversation. As a matter of fact, Sonny may gain self-confidence and self-respect from knowing that in spite of one's shortcomings one can grow up into as responsible and remarkable a person as Dad.

Sometimes the relief that comes from hearing that Mother or Father suffered from the same kind of "badness" is startlingly dramatic. Ellen, for example, was as boisterous and bossy as the day was long. Her younger sister was quiet and retiring, but quite dependent on Ellen to look out for her interests in neighborhood affairs, and she was often the victim of the older child's bossiness. When she was about nine, Ellen began to be afraid to go up to bed alone. She often cried out in her sleep something about "wanting to be good" or "not wanting to push."

The waking Ellen was so different from the dreaming Ellen, that her parents decided to talk the matter over with the adjustment teacher at school. After discussing the family situation, it was agreed that Ellen might be somewhat resentful of her rather goody-goody sister and feel a bit guilty over this resentment. So it might be wise to arrange to give Ellen more opportunity to play without having little sister tag along.

The adjustment teacher also suggested that Mother and Father very casually talk about some of their own feelings toward brothers and sisters when they were young. The next evening Mother remarked that she had had a letter from her sister. "It's certainly fun to hear from her these days, but when I remember how we squabbled when we were little! Why, one day I threw a shovel at her, and I was scared when it nearly hit her."

Of course, hearing about a parent's shortcomings does not always work such magic, but it does help. Also, you can overdo your confessions. If perchance, your youthful indiscretions include things you should be ashamed of such as cheating at exams—keep them to yourself. After all, children need an example of honor from their parents. What we have been referring to are merely admissions that parents are human.

SAFETY AND SERVICE

A prominent financial institution of this section that provides stability to the financial and commercial interests of the community is the Xenia National Bank. It is under the direction of conservative yet progressive men who have guided this institution to substantial progress, evidenced by the large volume of business they enjoy.

This institution that has carefully guarded the best interests of the depositors by demanding the fullest security and adhering to the cardinal laws of finance. They are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

While this bank is seeking their own commercial success, those in charge always find time to lend a generous hand to the business men and farmers and therefore contribute greatly to the progress of this community.

The value and necessity of our local banks cannot be too emphatically stated as these institutions are not only responsible for the growth and expansion of the community but also large but for prosperity of the individual business enterprises as well.

In making this review we are proud to pay tribute to the Xenia National Bank, and to congratulate the officers and board for the policies pursued by them.

FOR KFFPS

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

"PLEASE TRY and understand, Ken," Vivien said, "it isn't that—there's anything wrong with you. I've known you all my life. We were children together. You're perfect!"

"Then why won't you marry me?"

A helpless, regretful look came into her eyes. "We're different, Ken. Can't you see? You're so practical—and dependable. I'm so sure of what you're going to do next, so sure it will be the right, sensible thing. And, Ken, I'm not that way!"

"I'm sick of hearing about it," he repeated. "I've loved you ever since we were kids. You know that. You know I still love you. But—I guess you're not coming to your senses." Vivien was hurt. Ken was such a fine, honorable boy. He had been so good to her. She hated to hurt him.

She might have changed her mind about everything if it weren't that she and her mother had lornat—a handsome youth with fiery black eyes, a strong, masterful personality and a superbly gracious manner. Vivien felt that she had been so kind to the end of the rainbow. Of all the men she had met he stood head and shoulders above the others. The fact that he was attentive to her thrilled her to the core.

The next day she joined a party on the beach. The young diplomat was there, resplendent in a baggy pair of trunks. Vivien stared at him, and wondered why some circus hadn't offered him a contract. The man was positively a freak. His legs resembled untapered baseball bats, his arms were scrawny and his torso was thin to the point of emaciation.

Vivien began to get discouraged. From Venice they went to Vienna, to Berlin, Hamburg and Stockholm. Everywhere she met new people, saw new things. Yet she was discouraged. She was possessed of a strange, disconcerting longing. A sense of frustration, of failure.

Seeking solitude with her thoughts, she strolled one day into Halsted park and sat on a bench to meditate. Nearby was another bench on which sat a young man reading a newspaper. That portion of him which was visible excited her interest. He appeared to possess a combination of the many things she had found lacking in the young men who paid her court since they had left America. She didn't stop to wonder how she knew. The fact was simply there, unavoidable, overpowering. He was tall and blonde—not freaky or overbearing or extremely gracious. Merely a man with simple tastes and a straightforward manner and intelligent eyes.

That is, she imagined his eyes were intelligent. And an instant later she had a chance to find out. The young man put down his paper and stared straight at her. He smiled—the sort of smile that Vivien had not seen for a long while. He untangled his long legs and stood up and came toward her.

She held her breath, waiting.

"Excuse!" he said, and grinned. "Ken!"

"The same. Ken, the sensible, the practical, the man who had been following you all over Europe for two months—just in case you failed to find your ideal. The boy who loves you, who grew up with you, who played with you in your back yard, who wanted to marry you ever since he can remember. And still does. How about it?"

Vivien tried to speak and couldn't. Tears filled her eyes. She choked, lifted her arms.

"How about it?" she said. "Oh, Ken, say it again. In good old American. It's what I want to hear. What I've been longing to hear. Will I marry you? If I who should ask, will you take me?"

"Not keeps," said Ken. And took her.

As guests of the friends, they spent days touring the city, attending theaters, visiting places that thrilled and fascinated Vivien beyond her wildest hopes.

planned the trip abroad. That overshadowed everything. It was easier to forget Ken and feel less sorry for him when she looked ahead. Europe! Strange, exotic places! Gallant, romantic men! The thought sent little shivers of anticipation running up and down her back.

They went first to Paris. They had friends in Paris. As guests of the friends, they spent days touring the city, attending theaters, visiting places that thrilled and fascinated Vivien beyond her wildest hopes. Then, too, there was a young Frenchman, Emile Ganche, who was frequently with the party. He was tall and dark and very serious. She heard stories that his ancestors were of the nobility. He was attracted to her and she imagined for a while that she could fall in love with him. But before a week had passed she admitted the truth. He was a little too slow, a little too serious, a little too reserved. He lacked in qualities that she couldn't define.

Then, too, there was a young American, a young man from America. One of the friends, a family of natives in Venice. A reputation washed for the Americans, and among those present was a young Italian, dis-
